ThermoSphere Single Bar Rails
ThermoSphere Patented Mounting System

Project overview

This prestigious development had single bar rails specified but the mounting method created a problem with the warranty of the fire and acoustic insulation of the drylined walls.

To overcome this challenge we adapted our patented mounting system which provided a perfectly level first fixing method that maintained the integrity of the structure whilst providing an incredible design feature.

ThermoSphere single bar rails include a self regulating element which is unique and are the only LST electrically heated bar. We only use 304 graded steel for our towel bars which can also be finished to match almost any taps and brassware.
